STILL DISTURBED—COMFORTABLE

EXECUTIVE MANSION August 15 noon — The president is said to be considered better at this hour than when the morning bulletin was issued He has taken some milk and a small quantity of beef extract, and has also partaken of some whisky with egg, all of which he has retained In response to the inquiry as to the cause of the president s vomiting Private Secretary Brown said it was due entirely to a weak stomach and while it was more or less aggravated by the wound that it could be attributed safely to the effect of the wound The president contracted dyspepsia while he was in the army and has at no time since been entirely free from it When he was in apparent good health he was oftentimes troubled with nausea Brown says the surgeons are not at all alarmed at the president s present condition During the last hour he slept some and appears strong

It having been intimated that the operation performed Monday last was in fact an attempt to remove the ball Mr Brown was asked if the story had any foundation He replied it was entirely erroneous and that it was not the immediate intention of disturbing the ball

THE SURGEONS EXPLANATION

WASHINGTON, August 15 — The midday bulletin was not issued till nearly 1 o clock The pulse was then 118, temperature 1 , respiration 19 The bulletin says since the last bulletin the president has not vomited again and he is now able to retain nourishment on his stomach At the morning dressing there was a free discharge of pus, and the wound is in good condition The president's temperature has not fallen since morning, and the midday bulletin appears alarming The surgeons say they attribute the higher pulse to exhaustion, caused by vomiting and look upon the reduction in temperature as a favorable symptom

SURGEONS BULLETIN

EXECUTIVE MANSION August 15 4 30 p m — The president s condition remains about the same as when reported at 2 15 p m, excepting perhaps a slight rise in temperature, caused by the usual afternoon fever The febrile rise, however, is said to be no greater than heretofore The patient has been nauseated once since the last bulletin was sent The surgeons refer to the last official bulletin as about covering up to this hour, with the exception of a return of nausea, and show no disposition to talk further on the subject

STILL HOPEFUL

WASHINGTON August 1 — The evening bulletin is anxiously awaited by the public At the Executive Mansion there is a perceptible feeling of natural anxiety about the patient, but no actual alarm exists and on the contrary the present unfavorable symptoms are considered temporary, and it is thought they will soon pass away

EXHAUSTED WITH

EXECUTIVE MANSION, August 15, 8 30 p m At this hour information obtained from attending surgeons is to the effect that while the indications are that the president s wound is doing very well and apparently is not the cause of the present trouble, the fact can be concealed that the patient is extremely weak and that his disability is such as to increase anxiety It has been determined not to disturb his stomach by permitting him to eat at present and nourishment is being administered by means of injections The surgeons explain this difficulty by the assertion that the president's stomach has failed to respond as it should upon the determination to inject nourishment There is a decided feeling of anxiety among members of the cabinet and attending surgeons and at this writing the situation is at least very grave Nothing has been heard from the sick room during the last hour and the cabinet officers now in waiting to hear the latest news Attorney General MacVeagh said in response to a question, We have heard nothing since the bulletin was issued Of course we are very anxious We expect to hear something very soon

UNOFFICIAL INFORMATION

EXECUTIVE MANSION, August 15 — 9 p m The president has experienced no trouble from nausea since the hypodermic injection Morphine was administered and now the president is sleeping

9 15 p m — A gentleman who just came from the private parlor says Mrs Garfield informs him the president is still sleeping quietly

9 30 p m — Private Secretary Brown just from the president says he is still sleeping naturally without morphine none of which has been administered to-day The pulse has decreased ten beats and is 120

9 45 p m No further nausea experienced by the president Surgeons estimate his temperature to be about normal Indications are the pulse is still subsiding

BETTER THINGS HOPED FOR THE MORNING

CABINET OFFICERS ANXIOUS

EXECUTIVE MANSION August 1 11 70 p m — Although there have been feelings of anxiety at the Executive Mansion all day no alarm was felt regarding the president s condition until late this afternoon The fact that none of the attending surgeons have entered the business apartments of the mansion during the day occasioned an unfavorable suspicion which the evening bulletin proved was warranted Since that bulletin was issued there has been a constant arrival of enquirers at the White House The room of Private Secretary Brown has been crowded all the evening Among those first to arrive were Postmaster-General James and Attorney-General MacVeagh Shortly after came Assistant Secretary of State Hitt, Secretary Windom, and Secretaries Kirkwood and Hunt, Second Assistant Postmaster General Elmer First Comptroller Lawrence, General J A Walker, Associate Justice Harlow General Sherman General Dunn, and many more of prominence Secretary Lincoln is in New York Secretary Blaine is in New Hampshire Both these gentlemen have been communicated with by telegraph concerning the serious condition of the president The private secretary said to-night he expected Secretary Lincoln to return to Washington to-morrow

Members of the cabinet left the Mansion for their respective homes about 11 o'clock, at which hour the patient was still sleeping naturally and quietly Dr Bliss and Reyburn remain at the Executive Mansion during the night Assistant Secretary Hitt deemed it advisable at a late hour to-night to inform Secretary Blaine of the unfavorable change in the president's condition in order that he might return to Washington

AN ATTENDANT S OPINION

One of the attendants upon the president said at 10 30 he did not consider the president s condition necessarily alarming, although it certainly warranted anxiety that he had not vomited during the past six hours and that his sleep had been perfectly natural In the opinion of this gentleman everything is being done for the patient that professional skill can suggest, and he feels quite sure the morning will show improvement

EXECUTIVE MANSION, August 15 — The following was issued a few minutes past eight o clock to-night R B Hayes, Fremont, Ohio Have reached another very serious point in the case. The conditions at this hour, symptoms of a character that causes great anxiety We hope for better things in the morning (Signed) H C Corbin

A CHICAGO SPECIAL

CHICAGO, August 15 — An Inter Ocean's Washington special says. Since 4 o'clock the president has grown rapidly worse, and I learn from a semi-official source that his condition is now critical Nourishment is being administered by injection with the hope that the waning strength of the patient may be sustained and the stomach become less irritable If this expedient is not successful there will be great danger Great excitement followed the appearance of the 7 p m bulletin announcing a rise of the pulse to 130, and depression of temperature to 99 5

TO LEAR SOMETHING

WASHINGTON, August 15 — The surgeons keep close to the president and avoid giving any opinions outside, but there is no concealing the fact that the president is decidedly worse and that he is in much danger The general feeling here is one of great despondency Crowds are pressing to the White House for the latest news, and doctors not connected with the case have but little hope. Dr Bliss and eminent surgeons fear the worse results Hopes are still held that the president may get better to-night

FEARS OF A SERIOUS TROUBLE

CHICAGO August 15 — The Inter Oceans Washington dispatch says The morning bulletin caused great anxiety owing to a fear that a serious gastric trouble might ensue The doctors say however, at 11 o clock, that all nausea has disappeared, and he had retained a little whisky and beef essence without retching —

CABLE TO BESSIE

The following cable dispatch was sent at 8 30 p m to Lowell, Minister at London The president s condition is less satisfactory Irritability of the stomach returned and he vomited three times since one o clock Temperature 100 pulse 120 respiration —

(Signed) Hitt Acting Secretary

SCENES IN CHICAGO

CHICAGO August 1 — A lot of senseless newsmongers and reckless newspapers are giving currency to a report that the president will not live Even at this hour newsboys are shouting on the streets A full account of Garfield dying! and Saturday and yesterday reports were going about that the president was dead These report are out of the reckless what is possible but according to every reliable piece of information a not at all probable event The reports are based on the highest temperature and pulsations of the president and not on any credible reports or information

MRS GARFIELD

NEW YORK August 15 A Washington special to the Evening Post says The universal sympathy felt for Mrs Garfield in her present affliction will be greatly heightened by the knowledge of the fact that she is expected to become a mother about the end of November The health of Mrs Garfield has been excellent since her recovery from her illness two months ago of which the cause was at the time misunderstood Mrs Garfield was married in 1858 and is now about 46 years old

DISCUSSING THE SYMPTOMS

CHICAGO August 15 — Dr DeWolf health commissioner of this city, was asked what height a person s pulse can go to before it is considered dangerous He replied that depends upon the circumstances of the case In recovery from ague the pulse might run up to 140 and not be dangerous A rapid pulse is indicative of two things the condition of exhaustion and condition of irritation from the presence of foreign bodies or possibly from blood poisoning from the absorption of pus though there has been no recent chill in the president s case to indicate such occurrences

The president s pulse is reported to be 118 That is high if long continued The bad features in his case are Progressive exhaustion, which is evident from the increased frequency of the pulse the progressive emaciation and an added danger is the refusal of the stomach to retain food and digest it It is difficult without understanding all the features of the case to give an intelligent opinion of the result, but I think there are grounds for grave apprehension A continued temperature of 102 to 104 degrees would be dangerous It is the gradual increase of and continued high pulse that is discouraging, but it is not the pulse alone but occasional evidences of blood poisoning, increase of fever, exhaustion and emaciation that makes this special case disheartening I don t think there is immediate danger

HONORFD GUESTS

Baron Steuben's Descendants Invited to Yorktown

WASHINGTON, August 15 — The state department in answer to inquiries as to whether the descendants of Baron Steuben, of whom there are several in the German army were to be the Yorktown centennial wrote the minister at Berlin yesterday During the darkest period of the revolutionary war, a German soldier of character and distinction tendered his sword in aid of American independence Frederick William Augustus Baron Steuben joined Washington s disastrous campaign of 1778 The letter then recounts the valuable and skillful services of Steuben, and says he was present at the final surrender at Yorktown in 1781 He then assures the German government that representatives of Baron Steuben will be honored guests of fifty million people of the United States and that the United States sends out a hearty invitation to them to be present To Germans in America the visit of Baron Steuben s relations will have something of the revival of family ties, while to all Americans of whatever origin the presence of German guests will afford a fitting opportunity of testifying their respect for that great country within whose limits are included so much of human grandeur and human progress

A CONSTITUTIONAL QUESTION

Present Duties of the Vice President Discussed.

NEW YORK, August 15 — The Times joins the discussion of the vice president question To say it has no real interest at this time is puerile, and to maintain it as a matter of minor importance is foolish The president is at this moment unable to discharge the powers and duties of the executive office, and it is no performance of his official functions to set his name, even "with a firm, clear hand," to documents brought in to him by the secretary of state Considering the slow progress the president is making there is no assurance whatever that it may not be so a matter of urgent necessity that executive acts of the highest importance should be performed before he is in a condition to give them requisite attention and to exercise his undisputable judgment in connection with them It is a general recognition of the fact that Arthur has not been of late with the Garfield administration that made many people regard the possibility of his succession with dread and makes them reluctant to admit that he is in any case to act in the president s place but this feeling can not subvert the provision of the constitution He is the person primarily designated by the constitution as the one upon whom they devolve when the president is unable to discharge them

SPOTTED TAILS MURDER

Result of a Conspiracy---A Proposed Change

WASHINGTON D C August 16 — The Indian bureau to-day received another report from Agent Cook at Rosebud agency that the killing of Spotted Tail He had arrested Crow Dog the murderer and Black Crow his accomplice and sent them to Nebraska for confinement until the arrival of the United States marshal to take charge of them They will be tried for the murder by the laws of that territory Black Crow is spoken of as chief in place of Spotted Tail and organized a gang of adherents Crow Dog was his chief assistant The murder of Spotted Tail was the result of a regular conspiracy to get him out of the way and put Black Crow in his place — Black Crow made no concealment of this but boasted of it Cook has appointed White Thunder as temporary chief to succeed Spotted Tail until the commission Spotted Tail s son be appointed by the interior department to succeed his father The prompt arrest of the murderers by Cook has inspired all his friends at the agency

FURTHER PARTICULARS

The following report contains additional details of Spotted Tail, together with important suggestions and proposed change in the local Indian government which is received at the Indian department today from Dakota Agency

Estate Dunn in his letter of yesterday that the murder of Spotted Tail by Crow Dog, and an accomplice named Black Crow, both head men of the Brule Sioux was the result of a long-standing feud While this is partially true new evidences have been developed which disclose a long and well matured plan to rid the chiefs of Spotted Tail The conspirators were few but of a desperate character who had totally made up their minds if the chief will not resign they would kill him The ringleader was Black Crow who now makes no secret of his intentions His ambition was to hold Spotted Tail s position and if it could not be accomplished by fair means they didn t scruple to use most foul means Upon as returning these facts I had Black Crow arrested as accessory to the murder and sent him to Crow Dog Company With their leader gone the disaffected element will rapidly disperse and no longer exist as an organization

In connection with the subject of a head chief, if possible, I beg leave to receive your early consideration The position of head chief is a hindrance to civilization The main object of this personage is to centralize all power in himself To do this he must strive to continue the tribal relations, to prevent his people scattering over the reservation for the purpose of taking up allotments of land he must gather them in villages where they can keep alive their barbarous customs dances, etc in short to retain his head is chief over the nation, he must act in opposition to measures adopted by the government for the ultimate civilization of the Indians Minor chiefs are already squabbling for the office but I have informed them the appointment and recognition of so important a position must come from the office of Indian affairs I have therefore to recommend that no successor to Spotted Tail be appointed that his son, young Spotted Tail, be recognized as chief of his own immediate band, so that if at any time a representative of the tribe shall be desired at Washington for conversing upon the interest of his people, he shall be chosen with special reference to his intelligence and loyalty to the government

If the office of Indian affairs should direct this it will forever preclude the possibility of such an occurrence as that of yesterday Being of the opinion that this is necessary I should be presented at the coming conference of the honorable secretary of the interior I appointed White Thunder chief of the Loafer Sioux to fill Spotted Tail s place in the delegation He is a man of barely ordinary ability, but of unquestioned loyalty, and was the only available person to be found at the time I trust my action in the matter will receive your approval I have to add that prompt action in arresting the murderer of Spotted Tail has had the best beneficial effect upon the people at large All excitement is allayed and at present one would not imagine we had just passed through a crisis, during which some rash Indian or white might easily have turned the peaceful ending into a terrible tragedy As it is we have every reason to be thankful Monday orders will be given for two hundred freighters to proceed hauling supplies, as I deemed the better plan to keep the young men busily engaged, thus preventing them from taking advantage of the present situation and stirring up trouble (Signed) JOHN COOK.

JUSTICE GRANTED.

The Winners of the 1,000 Feet Race Awarded Their Prizes.

Pendegast's Trickery Condemned by Our Fire Department.

A meeting of the Colorado Springs fire department was held on Saturday night for the purpose of closing up tournament affairs and settling all account After adjusting all debts and defraying all expenses incurred by the department for the tournament it was found that there was still on hand a balance of nearly $100 Upon motion of Foreman Harrison of the W S Falconer hose company it was unanimously voted by the department that to Messrs Purple of Black Hawk Dixon of Silver Cliff and Banks of Denver the prizes rightfully won by them in the 1 000 feet hose race of last Thursday The total amount awarded was $50 of which Purple gets $ 0 Dixon $ and Banks $10 A motion was also passed at the meeting condemning the actions of Hose No 2 of Denver and those of Pendegast in their outrageous and detestable efforts to dishonestly control the 1 000 feet foot race and thus defeat those who entered the race with the expectation of seeing fair play These prizes are awarded to the winners merely as a gift of the Colorado Springs department and such award was prompted out of a desire of the department to see justice done to all visitors at the tournament From the time that the race was declared off by the judges the popular sympathy has been with Purple and the action taken by the firemen in sticking to the terms of the appeal of our citizens Not only has the Gazette condemned the action of Pendegast but the Leadville and Denver papers have taken the same stand Had Pendegast entered the race from the start with the intention of winning his competitors an equal show with himself he would not have merited the abuses that have been showered upon him But as it was he was alone in his own game, and because he was defeated he resorted to a protest in order to beat the winners out of their prizes and protect himself and his backers from heavy losses Such detestable trickery as this could not be countenanced by our firemen and notwithstanding the fact that the race was declared off and they in no way bound to pay the prizes they have done so merely out of a desire to see justice done to all Treasurer Dobbins of the fire department yesterday forwarded the amounts above mentioned to Banks, of Denver and Dixon, of Silver Cliff As Purple, the winner of the first prize was still in the city, the money was paid to him personally At his request we publish the following card of thanks

Spirits at Work

A large audience greeted Annie Lin Lay, the materializing medium, in the opera house on Sunday night What the people went to see was an illustrated lecture on spiritualism, but what they did see was an ingenious cabinet performance without the lecture The audience were requested to choose two middle aged men to act as an investigating committee and the two selected were Alderman Wilkes and Dr Stricklet The medium worked like a machine during the entire evening and nothing was asked of it that was not granted with the best of grace.

The same cabinet the same bells, the same ropes and the same secrecy that the spirits have adopted for such entertainments for the past 10 years were brought into use and we would suggest that a revised edition of the medium be adopted As is invariably the case the committeemen although diligent in their efforts to detect the spirits at work failed to reveal any imperfections to the audience Alderman Walkers actions on the stage caused more amusement than the purported supernatural accomplishments of Miss Lay While performing the duties imposed upon him by the audience to the best of his ability Mr Wilkes received a note accusing him of being an accomplice of the spirits and in order to prove that he was not in that the medium so tight that it required full fifteen minutes for the spirits to loosen the bonds As a whole the manifestations by Miss Lay were what many had seen a hundred times before and no new light was thrown on the subject of spiritualism Materializing mediums have ceased to entertain the citizens of civilized countries

An absorbing question—Where shall the capital be located?

What will the Tribune say to Tobey's law for stealing a march on them?

The two boys all had receptions when they got home. The Silver Cliffs especially sat down to a right royal banquet.

Leadville says she is pretty busy now with mining and smelting, but if any one wants to thrust the capital upon her—well, etc.

The Irish bald bill goes back to the house of lords as it was when it first left the commons, except as to the change made by the government accepting the Argyle amendment in modified form. The dispatches indicate that the lords will not accept this bill as it is, or, in other words, that they will raise a conflict by insisting on their amendments. It is surprising that they should do this. It was not expected and they make a grave mistake in trying to defeat the popular will.

The condition of the president gives cause for general and great alarm. The reports from Chicago tell the story. Many reports are telegraphed over the wires that the president is dying, or that he can live only a short time. Either those sending the despatches are merely catering to the sensational appetite or they report what is true. If the latter is true, then why are the doctors at the White House keeping the public misinformed? What can be their object? It is time the people knew the real state of the case. If he is not to get well let the people know it at once.

The Interocean says: "Hartmann, the nihilist, meets with as cool a reception in Canada as he did in the United States. Instead of making open appeals for public sympathy, he is hiding like a murderer pursued by detectives. The people of both countries are against him, and the question to be discussed does not turn on special interpretations of the extradition laws so much as on the temper of the public.

"America has been for many years an asylum for the unfortunate and the persecuted of Europe. These have always found here ready sympathy and substantial aid. But there has never been any sympathy with crime, or any disposition to condone of offenses committed in other countries. The European criminal who comes here to boast of his crimes will be treated as a criminal, even though the law should not so regard him.

The story of the fight on the Rosebud, where Custer and his command were annihilated, has never been satisfactorily told and it never can be. The only surviving witness of the affair are Indians, and from the very nature of the case it is not probable that they would criminate themselves in anything they might be induced to say of the fight. Little by little we are getting nearer to the details of the tragedy, however. In a recent interview Low Dog, a prominent Ogallalla chief, who took an active part in the fight, minutely described what he saw of the contest. He admits that if Reno had shown Custer's courage and dash the Indians would have been defeated. As for Reno Low Dog says he and his command would have been butchered had not some of the chiefs called off their men, saying that there had been enough of fighting, that the whites had been punished enough and that it would be merciful to let them go. Another prominent chief told substantially the same story.

The following rumor appeared in yesterday's Denver Republican: "The alliance between the Denver & Rio Grande and the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy railroad companies is the most important railroad fact of the year. The two companies propose to build the Burlington & Missouri railroad from its present terminus in Nebraska to Denver. The distance is only about 200 miles. At the same time the Utah extension of the Rio Grande is to be built at common expense to Ogden on the Central Pacific. The object of the alliance is a new through route, via Denver, to the Pacific. It will require but a glance at the map to show the reader the decided advantage in distance this line will have over all competing lines. The alliance will prove a great blessing to Denver, as it not only gives us a new direct outlet from Denver east, but one able to cope with the Union Pacific in all respects. The escape from the Union Pacific's monopoly in the California trade will be equally welcome. The connection eastward will be made in a few months and the Utah extension will be in operation by January. The positive announcement of this fact will bring rejoicing into the board of trade and among business men generally, and the progress of construction will be eagerly watched."

What Result?

Leadville Herald

Given the capitalian advantages surrounding Leadville, and a solid vote of the citizens of this city, and what will be the result?

EXTRADITION

Philadelphia Record

Extradition is the surrender by one sovereign state or political community to another, on its demand, of persons charged with the commission of crime within its jurisdiction, that they may be dealt with according to its laws. Under treaty stipulations not only fugitives from justice may be surrendered but deserting seamen, and we have treaties to that effect with a considerable number of foreign governments, including Russia. The mutual surrender of criminals between the several states of the union is provided for by the constitution of the United States.

Such public jurists as Grotius, Vattel, Heffter, Phillimore and Kent maintain that the extradition of fugitive criminals, independent of treaty stipulations, is a matter of imperative duty, but another class of writers upon international law, including Puffendorf, Wolf, Schmalz and Wheaton, regard the obligation as imperfect in its nature, and a refusal to surrender fugitives from justice as affording no ground of offence. The practice of governments as to extradition has varied, many having recognized it as a matter of mutual comity and convenience while others have taken a different view and refused to surrender criminals unless bound by treaty to do so. Among those which have always thus declined is the government of the United States. In the list of the crimes whereof persons duly charged are subject to be given up in pursuance of our treaties with foreign states there are included murder, assault with intent to commit murder, piracy, arson, robbery and forgery.

Most of the treaties contain provisions relating to the evidence required to authorize an order of extradition, but as it was doubted whether such stipulations had the force of law congress passed the act of August 12, 1848, for giving effect to certain treaty stipulations between this and foreign governments for the apprehension and delivering up of certain offenders. This act will be found at page 1030 of the Revised Statutes of the United States. Before any person can be surrendered a demand must be made upon the president by the executive power of the government whose laws have been violated, and it is usual for such demand to be preferred before the institution of judicial proceeding for the arrest of the fugitive. But the act of congress does not require this to be first done.

As to the procedure in case of extradition, a complaint may be made by any citizen under oath or affirmation charging the person to be arrested with the commission of one of the enumerated crimes. A warrant for the arrest of the person charged may thereupon be issued by any of the justices of the supreme court or of the several district courts of the United States or of the judges of the state courts, or by a duly authorized United States commissioner. The person arrested is to be brought before the officer issuing the warrant, to the end that the evidence of criminality may be heard and considered. Properly authenticated copies of deposition upon which the original warrant in the foreign country may have been granted may be received in evidence of the alleged criminality. The identity of the offender must of course be established with reasonable certainty. The degree of evidence must be such as would be sufficient according to the laws of the place where the person arrested shall be found, to justify his apprehension and commitment for trial if the crime or offence had been there committed. If the evidence be deemed sufficient the officer hearing it must certify the same, together with all the testimony taken before him to the secretary of state, who, upon the requisition of the proper authorities of the foreign government, shall order under his official hand and seal in the name of the president the delivery of the accused to such person as is authorized by the foreign government to receive him. If the prisoner escapes he may be retaken. Whenever a person committed to await a requisition is not delivered up and conveyed out of the United States within two calendar months of his commitment any judge, upon application, may order his discharge from custody.

These provisions of law certainly guard the rights of foreigners charged as fugitives from justice with great tenderness. In several of the treaties it is expressly stipulated that neither party is to surrender its own subjects or citizens to the other, and in those with France, Austria, Baden and Swiss Confederation and the Two Sicilies crimes of a political character are excluded. It will be seen that in no case does the president or the secretary of state take the initiative in the rendition of a foreign criminal, and no arrest is made except under direct judicial authority.

To Improve Society

Leadville Herald

But society ought to have some other gatherings besides dances. We should have literary meetings, where new and good books could be read and talked over. There is probably no city in the United States of the size of Leadville where there are so many well-educated men. You can find miners in overalls who can quote Tennyson and read Zola. Graduates of colleges can constantly be found, pick in hand. An ore driver the other day was heard criticising Swinburne. The material for a literary association, which should meet once a week and keep literary taste alive, is abundant. It would be especially beneficial to the young ladies, who, in the absence of some stimulus, are apt to neglect reading for gossip. Such a society should avoid the rock on which so many have split. Members should not be invited to read their own compositions, in prose or verse. We all think our own writings lovely, but others are apt to take a different view, and to be bored by them. To save discussion it might be better to read selections from the best and latest publications in New York and Boston. Let the members comment and criticise. A year's working of such a society would complete an education, and would spare us the misery of hearing a lovely creature in silks and jewels ask when Sir Walter Raleigh founded New York.

With Others This

Leadville Herald

Another reason why Leadville would make a good point for the meeting of the state legislature, is the fact of the excellent discipline of the police force. When a party of choice legislative spirits see fit to go out on a first masking expedition, they would have the benefit of their own laws in a comfortable cell in the city jail instead of affording amusement for a squad of gaping policemen such as those who according to the Denver papers, form the street corner ornaments of the capital. There are numerous other reasons why Leadville is a desirable place for the capital but these are enough. Leadville is the finest winter resort in the world and if it is a little cold it will serve the purpose of cooling off the hot blood which made itself manifest last year to the detriment of the state.

Need of Action

Georgetown Courier

The southern part of the state has jeopardized its chances of securing the capital by being divided upon several localities, whereas the northern portion of the state will be solid for Denver. The outlook now is that unless the south unites upon Colorado Springs the fight will be too one-sided to be interesting for that place is the only southern city that is worthy of being mentioned in this connection. As there is not the slightest probability of union in the south being brought about, Denver's chances can be considered good.

Talk Pretty or Give

Silver Cliff Prospect

Well, the agony is over. Silver Cliff has the belt, and has been chosen the place to hold the next annual tournament. Ed Austin, of Silver Cliff, has been chosen first vice president. Now shall we have the state capital? Better talk pretty to us, or we will take it right away from you all.

No Effect on the Capital

Pueblo Chieftain

The bed bugs in the Colorado Springs hotels have grown so voracious this warm weather that the guests are compelled to sleep in chairs on the porches.

—This is not intended to have any effect on the site to capital question.—

Only Fair

Pueblo Chieftain

The opinion of THE GAZETTE that state town money would be refunded of a good deal of ample usefulness if professionals were kept out of all contests, will be heartily endorsed by all who witnessed the late disgraceful row at Colorado Springs.

General Satisfaction.

Leadville Herald

The capital question settled by the Leadville and every one would be satisfied. It would be a sort of poetic justice, as it were, to fix the capital in the city which gave the state its quite great reputation.

The Oldest Meeting House in America

Hingham, Mass., contains what is called the oldest meeting house in America, and its bicentennial celebration occurred last Monday. The Boston Traveller says of it:

The Old Church perpetuates a style of architecture which has almost passed from the memory of the "oldest inhabitant." It is nearly an equilateral parallelogram, about 55 by 70 feet with an ordinary seating capacity of seven hundred. The inscription on the tablet given below shows the initiation and cost of the building enterprise.

The meeting house has a "hip" roof with a balustrade around the apex and an hexagonal bell tower surmounted by a spire-shaped steeple rising from the centre of the roof. The building was first enlarged in 1730 and again in 1755. The old frame is intact. There are girders 16 inches square, the king posts portlins curious, curved substitutes—all massive and of oak—together with posts and beams protruding into the audience room, the large gallery posts, the curved gallery and wall braces, everything hewn timber—gives an idea of solidity, strength and endurance which promises well for two hundred years more. The ceiling is 22 feet from the floor, and is papered on a varied white. The walls having a cream tinted covering. A light grained wainscoting rises three feet around the walls. The gallery runs about three sides supported by large round pillars, hewn. When the last general repairs were made in 1861 the old fashioned square pews introduced in 1731, were replaced by the present stiffness circular arrangement. In the loft in two of these unique pews one formerly occupied by the ministers family, and the other by the old hero General Benjamin Lincoln. These pews are curious in their construction, the several seats rising on hinges for convenience of standing in prayer time, and old residents well recall the general slamming all over the church when the "amen" came. These pews have the plain wooden arm rests adjustable by chains to wicket. The floors formerly rested on the ground and the present sexton tells of the toadstools which he has seen growing up in the pews. The present pulpit was put into the church in 1760 and is a fine piece of work, rising ten feet from the level of the pews. Its material is pine handsomely veneered. The reading desk flanked by two wings with crenelated and other mouldings, stands out in concave form, supported by bracket and tablet.

Overhead is a canopy—miscalled a canopy—crowned with a poppy head which joins to the ceiling. Behind the pulpit there was a double lancet window, now closed and crimson drapery forms the pulpit background. The windows were put in new in 1869, diamond shape, and a reproduction of the first sashes. Two porticos vestibules form the entrances. In the pediment of the principal one is the date inscription "MDLXXXI." The new sweet toned organ is decidedly out of place. It does not harmonize with the simple massive grandeur of the early times. It is a blemish on the unique beauty of this meeting house. What a contrast to the "Lincoln instrumentation." A bass viol, violoncello, clarinet, tenor bottle—these form in the sacred music of yoleden time. David A. Hersey played the violoncello for fifty years consecutively, and he is at his old post to-day, playing at 87 years. The church was not warmed at all before 1822, and then a great crowd assembled on the Sunday to witness the working of the first stoves.

A mural tablet has lately been erected to the right of the pulpit. The tablet is of bronze, on a white wood ground, ornamented with scroll work and tracery. The following is the inscription:

To the Work of Our Fathers Stand

MINISTERS

Peter Hobart	1635-1678
John Norton	1656-1663
Ebenezer Gay	1727-1787
Henry Ware	1765-1827
Joseph Richardson	1806-1827
Calvin Lincoln	1828
Edward Angelmus Horton	1857-1880

TEACHER

Robert Peck	1650-1941

This church was gathered in 1635. The frame of this meeting house was raised on the 26th, 27th and 28th days of July, 1681, and the house was completed and opened for public worship on the 8th day of January, 1681. It cost the town £430 and the old house.

The Vast Russian Empire

St. Petersburg, Correspondent London Times

To state simply that the empire of all the Russias has, or had in 1872, before the late conquests, an area of 21,000 geographical square miles may convey no very distinct meaning, but a glance at the map will satisfy us that the surface of the smaller half of this empire—European Russia—is considerably larger than that of all the other states of Europe put together, while the other half—Siberia, with the rest of the Asiatic provinces is not far from covering one third of the Asiatic continent and that third is neither the Rev. Henry Lansdell, in his five months journey from London to the mouth of the Amoor, all across the czar's dominions, want over 9,000 miles by rail, 5,000 miles by steamer and 4,000 by horses, or, altogether 18,000 miles almost in a straight line.

So far then, as a man may take pride in the mere bigness of this country, a Russian has ample reason to be proud. But a state, like a man may be none the happier for all that. A lofty stature, to be sure, enables a man to look over the heads of a crowd, an undeniable advantage, and mere height imparts an air of dignity and command which the undersized fully appreciate. But a six foot six giant is some saw, doubling him self up and drawing in his legs to get into a fully sized brougham is a ludicrous sight, very tall men are seldom well proportioned or robust, and in war they offer too easy a target to the wicked breechloaders of modern construction. In the same manner Russia is made unwieldy by her very bulk. She has to struggle with her prodigious length and width and to do it at a greater disadvantage than other large states. In the western continent for instance, in United States, in Brazil and the republics of South America man was powerfully aided by nature in his fight against enormous distances by the length of navigable watercourses, the Mississippi and Missouri, the St. Lawrence, the Plate, Parana and Uruguay, the Amazon, the San Francisco, etc., even before he could help himself by his railways, whereas in Russia the northern streams, both of Europe and Asia, the Niemen, the Dwina, the Obi, the Yenisei, the Lena, etc., empty themselves either in the White and Arctic seas, choked with ice for six or eight months in the year, or in the Baltic, also frozen in the winter months, and for a long time placed beyond reach of the czar's sway, and the southern streams, the Volga, the Don, etc., ended either in the Caspian or the Sea of Azoff and the Euxine, both closed for centuries against Russian enterprise and expansion.

With respect to railways it was Russia's misfortune to go late to work about their construction, and even what she has achieved between the Crimean and the Turkish war 1854-1876—strangely enough now to 14,000 to which after the peace of Berlin she is barely adding 800 miles yearly—a startling contrast to other large countries—as to the United States or North America for instance, which boasts of a net of railway lines of 95,000 miles, with an average annual addition of 10,000 miles. This backwardness of Russia in her endeavors to annihilate space by rapid modes of locomotion cannot be without grave consequences for her social and commercial as well as for moral and political interests. It is first ground for her in her battle of life in the incessant struggle against the geographical position which from the beginning doomed her to seclusion from the civilized world—a struggle the evidence of which may be read in every page of the country's history and may be followed in every shift of its government's policy.

The Jews in Morocco

In a review of a book entitled "Our Mission to the Court of Morocco" by P. D. Trotter, the London Times says of the Jews in that country:

It cannot be denied that though the Jews under the eyes of the Emperor consists in the coast have comparatively little to complain of, their co-religionists in the exterior are exposed to every sort of humiliation and ill treatment. At Fez they are compelled to reside on the Mellah or ghetto. In their own quarter they may do as they like except ride horses which are prohibited to the noble race as a base one, but once outside the boundary walls they must dismount from their mules and walk unfooted in all weathers. The Jews in Morocco, however, are more respected better off than the Mahomedans. If a Moor kills another Moor very little is said about the matter, whereas if a Jew is slain there are plenty of Europeans to take up his cause. The Jews moreover are exempted from military service. It is true that this evidence is not received by some tribunal, but in that respect they are the same footing with Christians. They were always anxious to become the subjects of some European power and to the abuse of certain consular agents this privilege is often obtained by purchase. There is no doubt also that the power of interference on the behalf of so called subjects of foreign powers is occasionally exercised roughly and improperly exercised.

THE APACHE OUTBREAK.

Official Report of the Cause of the Trouble.

WASHINGTON, August 15.—A report has been received by the Interior department from United States Indian Agent Llewellyn Mescalero Agency, New Mexico, relative to recent depredations committed by a party of Mescalero Apaches. Concerning the cause of this outbreak General Llewellyn writes, under date of July 20th. Some months ago a detachment of the United States army, stationed here, gave a written permit to three Indians at this agency to go to Old Mexico and bring back a party of their friends, whom they claimed had left at the time of the Victorio troubles. This party was the home three weeks ago, but were chased and driven into the mountains, thirty miles from the agency to the south. Since that time they have made, one of the packers for scouts says, three ineffectual efforts to get into the agency, being prevented each time by scouts and soldiers. Finding they could not return to the agency, as they had been led to believe, they concluded to go on the war path. I learn on good authority there are about 70 Indians in this party. Indians here feel badly that their friends could not be permitted to return, but all unite in telling me they will remain quiet and show the great father that their hearts are good.

THE LAND BILL.

Expression of Popular Feeling Against the Lords

LONDON, August 15.—The meeting of a committee of the federation of liberal associations to day, in reference to the action of the house of lords on the land bill, was very numerously attended. Sir Wilfred Lawson and Morris Collings, Firth and Dixon, members of parliament, were present. Resolutions were passed declaring the lords had mutilated the land bill in the interest of landowners so as to render it wholly unacceptable and urging the government to adhere firmly to the bill which finally left the commons. They also resolved that the actions of the lords raised the constitutional question tending directly to compel the country to consider the possibility of amending the system which enables that irresponsible chamber to defeat the will of the nation. Gladstone received a hundred messages and letters from liberal clubs and other organizations urging the government to remain firm.

The ministers are determined to allow the peers no loophole for escape from the muddling dilemma in which they are placed in reference to the land bill. On one or two minor points concessions will be made so as to afford the peers an opportunity for a timely retreat under cover of partial success.

LONDON, August 15.—After Gladstone's reply to Parnell in the house of commons, Dillwyn, liberal, said that he hoped no material concession would be made to an irresponsible body like the house of lords. Daniel Grant, liberal, said he would feel it his duty if a large concession was made, to vote against the government. Gladstone replied he was not surprised at these statements and said it was unnecessary to repeat the declarations he had already made respecting the main principle of the bill. Gladstone assented to several amendments and then moved to agree to amend the house of lords bill giving the landlord access to the land court when he failed to come to an agreement with the tenant. Parnell objected to this concession and a long discussion followed.

Black Hills Carbonates.

DEADWOOD, D. T., August 15.—The Iron Hill mining company organized here to-day to operate a belt of mines in the new carbonate camp, capitalized at $25,000,000. B. C. Lake, president of the First national bank is the president, B. C. Lake, John Guild, Fred M. Dorrington, J. J. Moore and Geo. N. Holway its board of directors, and S. P. Robbins, manager. This property embraces seventy acres of mineral lands.

Superintendent of the Coast Survey Dead

WASHINGTON, D. C., August 15.—Superintendent Carlisle P. Paterson, of the coast survey, died to-day near this city.

Opinions on Narrow Gauge

DENVER, August 15.—The traveling agent's excursion party, consisting of about twenty five representatives of the principal railroads of the United States, returned this evening from a tour of the Rio Grande road. In a set of resolutions passed they express the opinion that the splendid equipment of Colorado's narrow gauge railroads proved conclusively that narrow gauge roads are of the greatest importance to the future development of this section of the continent. This party take a trip through Clear Creek canon to-morrow and return east Thursday.

More Apache Depredations

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., August 15.—A ranch fifteen miles miles east from El Rito was burned yesterday. One Mexican woman and boy were killed by the Apaches. We have reliable reports that in all twenty-Mexicans and one soldier have been killed, and one white woman captured by the Apaches since the 10th inst. No damage is reported nearer than fifteen miles of the Atlantic & Pacific road. Quite a number of ranchmen are moving together for safety.

Condition of the Crops

WASHINGTON, D. C., August 15.—The department of agriculture to-morrow will issue a report on the condition of spring wheat, corn and tobacco crops. Statements of the condition of these crops as received from correspondents of the department have not as yet been fully tabulated. While nothing official can be obtained it is believed the report will show a falling off in crops. Spring wheat will be large as anticipated, and it is that the decrease of corn in the west will be less than expected, but in the south that crop will be an unusually small one. The tobacco crop also shows decrease in yield.

The Bankers' Convention

NEW YORK, August 15.—A writer in the Tribune reviewing the work accomplished by the bankers convention, says the general impression among bankers was that there were too many long papers and addresses and too little opportunity for discussion. Several important matters were however accomplished. In private session action was taken towards keeping all banks throughout the country promptly informed of frauds by confidence men or otherwise and a suggestion was made of action by ex-secretary of the treasury Charles New York bankers. The daily labor of shipping gold, and bankers throughout the country the expense and inconvenience of transporting it.

Excited Exchange in Chicago

CHICAGO, August 15.—There was wild excitement on 'change at the opening this morning which has continued unabated until this hour, noon. It was believed that reports of rain in western states would have sent the markets down, but they had no effect and prices started with an advance which has progressed almost without a break, and every article has soared in the rise. At this time prices are jumping rapidly up, and wheat is selling at $1 30½ for cash and August, $1 20 for October. Corn is higher and excited, having gone up to 60½c for August, 61½c for October, and 62½c November. There is fire-work in reaction at this moment, but the tendency is very strong.

Desperate Duel

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., August 15.—It is learned that a desperate duel was fought in the Indian nation last week in which Tom Carpenter, a Choctaw chief, was fatally wounded, and Colonel Amos Price, a citizen of the Creek nation, was killed. Considerable feeling exists, as both were among the most prominent men in the nation.

Exciting Day in Chicago.

CHICAGO, August 15.—The unusual excitement on 'change which characterized the early part of the day became gradually less in the afternoon and on call although the activity continued, prices were as a rule much weaker towards the close. Amidst all the excitement there were no failures, so far as known to night, but a great advance or break would undoubtedly shake out a few of the weaker dealers. Sales have been very heavy for two days past. To-day's trading may be estimated at 9,000,000 bushels of grain, three and a half millions sold on calls.

Tennis and Fox Hunting

NEWPORT, R. I., August 15.—Thomas Pettit, of Boston, won the championship in the International Court Tennis match with Henry Hooker of Quebec, the champion of Canada. The fox hunt this afternoon was well attended. Two dozen or more followed the hounds but less than half that number were in at the death. The country was very stiff and several riders were thrown but none injured.

Russian Grain

LONDON, August 15.—The Manchester Guardian says: The Russian ministry of the interior are considering measures for preventing the productive power of the people being improperly turned to account by speculators. It is intended to establish official control over all Russian grain markets, over foreign demand and over prices of grain in the empire.

California's Wish

SAN FRANCISCO, August 15.—The republican state central committee at a called meeting last Friday evening adopted resolutions asking Senator Miller to urge the appointment of a Californian as Secretary of the United States senate, and recommending Marcus D. Boruck for the position.

The Vatican's Terms

BERLIN, August 16.—It is reported that the Vatican insists upon the abolition of the tribunal for the trial of ecclesiastical cases as a preliminary condition of yielding upon the question of modifying clerical appointments to the government.

The East India Famine

CALCUTTA, August 15.—The official report of crops in the province of Mipere are more hopeful, but rain is greatly wanted. There is serious insurrection at Munee-Poor, but no details. The maharajah has executed seventeen men and imprisoned three hundred.

Guarding the Mails

WASHINGTON, August 15.—Division superintendents of the United States railway service met to-day and began the discussion of the question of providing some method of heating postal cars in winter that will not endanger the burning of the car in case of accident to the train.

Cheap Riding

CHICAGO, August 15.—The Grand Trunk to-day announces a seven dollar passage rate to Portland, Me.

Mrs Sprague's Divorce

PROVIDENCE, R. I., August 15.—Mrs. Sprague's counsel are trying to get a day fixed for the trial of her divorce suit.

Says the Leadville Herald: "Our boys are mighty pleased with their treatment by the Colorado Springs fellows. They shared in the general disgust at Pendegast's behavior, and says that Purple won the race fairly. None of the gentlemen who ran, proposed to play a gambler's game with the exception of this one Denver man. Purple, of the Black Hawk team, who won the race, was not very long since a tenderfoot himself, and the Denver boys contention which made the pill a more bitter one for Pendegast to swallow."

Mr. Hall Farmer, of the City drug store, has disposed of his interest in the business to Dr. D. B. Fairly and the name of the firm will in the future be Messrs. Rose & Fairly. Mr. Dolker contemplates a visit to California where he may conclude to locate in business, but it is to be hoped that he may yet decide to remain in Colorado Springs and embark again in business.

Remember the Odd Fellows excursion to the Grand Cañon tomorrow. Purchase your tickets early in order to give the committee opportunity to order the number of cars necessary. Manitou people can find tickets for sale at all the hotels.

Will C. Purple, of the Black Hawk team, is still in the city, and he fully appreciates the act of the fire department whereby he was awarded $50, the money fairly won by him in the 1,000 feet foot race of last Thursday.

The police authorities have been notified that some one has been stealing tools from Mr. Elwell's new residence on Weber street, and steps will at once be taken to bring the guilty ones to justice.

Quite a large delegation of eastern railroad passenger agents passed through this city on a Denver & Rio Grande train Sunday afternoon. They were on their return from Leadville via the Grand Cañon.

There will be a regular convocation of Colorado Springs' Chapter R. A. C. No. 6, this evening. Business of importance demands the presence of all companions at 8 o'clock sharp.

Alderman Cowell, of Leadville, who has been in attendance at the state tournament for the past week, returned to his home on the morning express yesterday.

The Rev. W. C. Jones, brother of Mr. F. L. Jones of the signal service, is visiting in the city. He occupied the pulpit of Grace Episcopal church on Sunday.

There will be a meeting of the hook and ladder company in their rooms over the City drug store this evening. A full attendance is desired.
